Privacy Policy

Roper-Hall Eye Foundation Privacy Policy

i We take your privacy very seriously. This policy sets out all the steps we take to safeguard your information, how we collect it and how we use it.

Who we are i The Roper-Hall Eye Foundation supports world-class scientific and clinical research into sight loss and other manifestations of eye disease. We enhance the education and training of professionals involved in eye care and in ophthalmic research and education.

The Roper-Hall Eye Foundation is a registered charity in England and Wales (1170780).

References to “we” and “us” in this policy refer to the Roper-Hall Eye Foundation.

The Roper-Hall Eye Foundation is a data controller of your personal data.

Data protection and your privacy

i The Roper-Hall Eye Foundation is committed to providing our supporters and stakeholders with the very best stakeholder care. We aim to ensure that we protect your privacy, do not do anything which you wouldn't reasonably expect with your personal data, and that you are informed about how we use your personal data.

Under the UK's Data Protection Act 2018 and the UK General Data Protection Regulation (UK-GDPR), the Roper-Hall Eye Foundation has a legal duty to protect any personal data it collects from you. We aim to put in place measures to protect your data, and to manage any information you share with us in line with data protection laws.

This Privacy Policy applies only to the Roper-Hall Eye Foundation (the site) that is under the parent domain of roperhalleyefoundation.org

The site is a UK-based website, and we will therefore comply with the requirements of GDPR relating to the personal data you supply on the site.

This Privacy Policy explains how the Roper-Hall Eye Foundation uses the information it collects about you through the site, and the procedures that the Roper-Hall Eye Foundation has in place to safeguard your privacy.

Please read this policy carefully, and any other documents referred to in this policy, to understand how we collect, use and store your personal information.

Types of personal data we collect

i We may collect the following information when you access our site: Device and usage data including IP addresses and device identifiers; Device event information including crash logs, hardware settings, browser type and browser language; Location information; Cookies and similar technologies ('cookie data').

The site provides various services that include, but are not limited to, providing information on and encouraging participation in the Roper-Hall Eye Foundation's activities. The information we gather ('information') may include the name and address of registered users, their credit or debit card number and expiry date, email address and telephone number.

We may also gather records of any correspondence we have with you.

The Roper-Hall Eye Foundation captures and stores personal data about an individual who accesses the website where he or she voluntarily chooses to give the Roper-Hall Eye Foundation personal data via email, or by using an electronic form on the website, or by enquiring about any of the Roper-Hall Eye Foundation's services or activities.

We may also collect other personal data from your use of the site, such as your IP address and access times.

How we use your data

i In simple terms, your personal data may be used to help us effectively carry out our charitable activities.

We will use the information you submit to us to process any donation you make, or to provide you with any other information or service you have requested from us.

When consent is granted or where we have legitimate interest to do so, we may use the information you submit to the site to notify you by email (with consent only) and post about the activities and services of the Roper-Hall Eye Foundation, and how you can support them.

We may also use your information for analysis and market research purposes to help inform us what appeals, and activities are working well.

We may also use your information for supporter profiling purposes to help inform our fundraising strategy. Charitable fundraising is very important to our work. We may use your data to create a profile of your interests and preferences, and to analyse your ability to provide financial support, so that our communications to you are as appropriate and cost effective as possible. If you wish to opt out of your data being used for these purposes, please email contact@roperhalleyfoundation.org

We may also use your information to keep a record of our relationship with you, notify you about changes to our service and comply with applicable laws and regulations and requests from statutory agencies.

We may offer you the opportunity to sign up to a mailing list and/or newsletter, to participate in a survey or a competition, or to receive information by email about any other products and services which we provide. If you sign up for any of these and subsequently change your mind, you may opt out by emailing contact@roperhalleyfoundation.org

Cookie data is automatically collected and stored in our server logs when you interact with our website. Collecting this cookie data enables us to improve user experience of our website, for example to provide you with tailored content. It also helps us to understand how our website is used, by analysing the traffic we receive, and to maintain and protect the security of our website and products. Our Cookie Policy explains this in more detail and can be found here

i Where you have provided your details to us, we may contact you by post and phone for certain marketing and fundraising activities. You can opt out of this activity at any time by emailing contact@roperhalleyfoundation.org

What legal bases do we rely upon to process your data

i The legal bases that we rely on for processing your personal data are:

You have provided your consent to us using your personal data for a specific purpose:

- We will ask for your consent to use your personal data to send you marketing emails and SMS.
- You always have the right to withdraw your consent at any time.

It is necessary in connection with the performance of a contract with you:

- Sometimes it is necessary to process your personal data so that we can enter into contractual relationships with you. For example, if you donate to us, we will require your personal data to enable us to collect the monies donated.

It is necessary for compliance with a legal obligation to which we are subject:

- This would include where we have to retain certain records, for example, to manage health and safety, for the detection and prevention of crime, safeguarding obligations, for maintaining suppression lists to ensure we comply with marketing laws, for tax reasons (such as those related to gift aid donations) and undertaking due diligence before accepting certain donations or entering into certain relationships.

It is within our legitimate interests:

- Applicable law allows personal data to be collected and used if it is reasonably necessary for our legitimate interests or a third party's legitimate interests (as long as the processing is fair, balanced and does not unduly impact individuals' rights). We will rely on this ground to process your personal data when it is not practical or appropriate to ask for your consent, and where we are confident that this will not unduly impact your rights.
- Our legitimate interests include raising funds for activities to support our charitable objectives, including helping the Roper-Hall Eye Foundation to invest in state-of-the-art equipment, educating the researchers and clinicians of tomorrow, and funding research to find better and more effective treatments for blinding diseases. We also have a legitimate interest in publicity and income generation, campaigning and fundraising in order to support these objectives and undertaking due diligence to establish the provenance of donations that are made, or may be made, to us.

- We will also rely on our legitimate interests for the proper administration of the charity, and to manage our operations (for example, maintaining appropriate records and databases, for the detection and prevention of crime and safeguarding all those who access our premises and facilities). The legal basis for collecting cookie data is our legitimate interest in improving our website and protecting our rights.
- When we process your personal data to achieve such legitimate interests, we consider and balance any potential impact on you (both positive and negative), and your rights under data protection laws. We will not use your personal data for activities where our interests are overridden by the impact on you, for example where use would be excessively intrusive (unless, for instance, we are otherwise required or permitted to by law).

Data storage and security

 The information you give us will be stored on a database and may be used by us for the purposes explained in this Privacy Policy.

When you submit your information to us on the site, we take steps to ensure that your information is treated securely. Unfortunately, it is not possible to guarantee the total security of any data transmitted over the internet. While we strive to protect your information, the Roper-Hall Eye Foundation cannot ensure or warrant the security of any information you transmit to us and you therefore do this at your own risk. Once we receive your transmission, we take reasonable steps to ensure its security on our systems, but we take no responsibility for any unauthorised access or loss of personal data that is beyond our control.

Please remember that other methods of internet communication, such as emails and messages sent via a website, may not be secure unless they are encrypted.

Your information is only accessible by staff, Trustees, volunteers and contractors who are bound by appropriate policies and procedures to protect your information.

Data retention

 The Roper-Hall Eye Foundation is committed to ensuring that its approach to data retention complies with legislation and aligns with best practice in the industry.

The personal data that we hold will be destroyed or erased from our systems when it is no longer needed for the purposes for which it was collected. The amount of time may depend on the reason for which we are processing the data and the type of data being processed.

In line with our Data Retention Policy, which is available on request, the Charity will retain certain personal data as considered necessary to support the ongoing fundraising, grant-making and operational activities of the charity.

Data sharing

We care about your details, and we will never sell your contact details for marketing purposes.

We will not sell, distribute or disclose your information without your consent, unless we believe in good faith that the law requires it, or we have another clear legal basis to do so.

If you have subscribed to any of our e-communications or e-newsletters, we will not sell or rent this contact information to anyone.

We may provide links to other websites. Before supplying any personal data to any other website, we recommend that you check that website's privacy policy – this privacy policy does not apply to such sites. We cannot accept responsibility for the protection of any data supplied to other sites.

Whilst we may allow our staff, Trustees and/or external service providers acting on our behalf to access and use your personal data for the activities we have described in this policy (eg. to provide services or products to you, deliver mailings, to analyse data and to process payments), we only permit them to use it to deliver the relevant information, goods or services, and only if they apply an appropriate level of security protection.

We may need to disclose your personal data upon request to regulatory and government bodies as well as law enforcement agencies. We may also merge or partner with other organisations and in so doing, acquire or transfer personal data but your personal data would continue to be used for the purposes set out above.

The personal data we collect from you may be transferred to, shared and/or otherwise processed by organisations or companies outside the European Economic Area ('EEA'). Where your personal data is transferred outside the EEA, we will take reasonable steps to ensure that the recipient implements appropriate measures to protect your personal data (for example, by entering into EU Commission approved standard contractual clauses).

Your rights in connection with your personal data

Under certain circumstances, by law you have the right to:

- a) Request access to your personal data (commonly known as a "data subject access request"). This enables you to receive a copy of the personal data we hold about you and to check that we are lawfully processing it.*
- b) Request correction of the personal data that we hold about you. This enables you to have any incomplete or inaccurate information we hold about you corrected.*

- c) Request erasure of your personal information. This enables you to ask us to delete or remove personal data where there is no good reason for us continuing to process it. You also have the right to ask us to delete or remove your personal data where you have exercised your right to object to processing (see below).
- d) Object to processing of your personal data where we are relying on a legitimate interest (or those of a third party) and there is something about your particular situation which makes you want to object to processing on this ground. You also have the right to object where we are processing your personal data for direct marketing purposes.
- e) Request the restriction of processing of your personal data. This enables you to ask us to suspend the processing of personal data about you, for example if you want us to establish its accuracy or the reason for processing it.
- f) Request the transfer of your personal data to another party. If you want to review, verify, correct or request erasure of your personal data, object to the processing of your personal data, or request that we transfer a copy of your personal data to another party, please email: contact@roperhalleyfoundation.org

No fee usually required:

You will not have to pay a fee to access your personal data (or to exercise any of the other rights). However, we may charge a reasonable fee if your request for access is manifestly unfounded or excessive. Alternatively, we may refuse to comply with the request in such circumstances.

What we may need from you:

We may need to request specific information from you to help us confirm your identity and ensure your right to access the information (or to exercise any of your other rights). This is another appropriate security measure to ensure that personal data are not disclosed to any person who has no right to receive it.

Notification of changes to this privacy policy

-  Our privacy policy will be reviewed annually. The policy may also be reviewed and updated if there are any changes in our practice or changes to the law. In each case, the amended version will be published on the site.

If there are significant updates to this policy, and if reasonably practicable we will notify you of this.

What to do if you are not happy

-  If you have any queries concerning this privacy policy or the way in which your personal data is used by us, please email: contact@roperhalleyfoundation.org

You are also entitled to make a complaint to the Information Commissioner's Office <https://ico.org.uk/global/contact-us/>. For further information see the Information Commissioner's guidance at ico.org.uk/your-data-matters/.
